

MAKE-UP Designory show

Make-Up Designory (MUD) enralls the Indian beauty industry with a fabulous ramp show.

Make-up Designory (MUD), the world's leading school in make-up, recently made news as it launched in India. At the launch, the international team of MUD created a few inspiring and fabulous looks, which were presented to a huge gathering of guests that included make-up artists from across India, leading beauty schools, chain of salons, beauty professionals, celebrity and eminent VIP.

The concept was created in keeping with the different modules and courses offered by MUD, and each model was prepped keeping the concept and theme in mind. As the models walked the ramp, Paul Thompson, Director of Education, MUD, elaborated upon each look. A time-lapse video showcasing the complete description agenda was also shown.

The show was put together by international and Indian artists at MUD as well as a team of partners, who were a part of this unique creation that was the talk of the town. MUD's Hairstyling Partner, Pratibha Nalla and her team, put up a professional styling pattern as per the concept. Bridezilla and Co. worked on the wardrobe in sync with the designed looks and theme.

MUD has currently launched a wide range of workshops and masterclass in association with leading international and Indian artists, which are inspired by the looks created at the launch event. For more details, email: info@makeupdesignory.in.
